Online Audio Recording Certificate

The Online Audio Recording Certificate will afford students a fast-track opportunity to acquire training in the fundamentals of audio engineering and music production. The online certificate applies the advantages in the evolution of digital audio to allow students to learn about audio recording from their own home, anywhere in the world, regardless of the student's musical interest.

The program focuses on hands-on applications with Pro Tools software in a home recording studio setting, with additional curriculum content covering guitar musicianship, songwriting, music history, and small business management.

Job Outlook

The Online Audio Recording Certificate prepares students to begin work in a recording studio setting as an audio engineer with real-world applications for sound design, radio DJ, radio advertising, Internet radio, and podcasting. According to the US Occupational Outlook Handbook, the median pay for an Audio Engineer is $41,200 per year.
